

NOHA WINTER SCHOOL

Linking Relief with Rehabilitation and Development

University of Pavia - Italy

12-16 December 2016

The Winter School intends to build awareness on the concept of linking relief with rehabilitation and development (LRRD) amongst humanitarian relief and development workers, and students of Ph.D. and Master programmes. It is also aimed at promoting a better understanding of theoretical and operational implications of the LRRD approach.

The winter school will be organized in 5 modules conducted with similar techniques of active learning: frontal lessons with the presentation of case studies, free discussion, structured inquiries, brainstorm sessions, and fishbowl. Moreover, participatory facilitation techniques will be adopted in order to encourage the involvement learning experience of all the trainees.
